

ABSTRACT

An improved network extender module 6 connects multiple data sources (1 and 2) to a network 3. This invention facilitates the addition of a Voice over Internet Protocol (VoIP) telephone 1 to be added to a system without any significant degradation in the performance of data transmission between a computer workstation 2 and a network 3.